STUDY FOR BUSINESS

HIGH SCHOOL COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT STUDENTS LEARN PRACTICAL WORK

One of the most interesting practical evidences of the work now being done in the Commercial department of Glendale Union High school is contained in an attractive booklet recently issued by the students of that department. This is a highly creditable production. It shows specimens of all the different departments of commercial work now being studied in the commercial department of the school.

Mr. Herman Joy, teacher of the commercial department, came to Glendale last September to take up this work in the High School. He had been employed in the High School at Seattle in the same department and had acquired a very high reputation there for systemization of work and for practical development of all branches of commercial study. He has introduced these methods in the Glendale High School with excellent effect.

In this booklet are shown specimens of penmanship. They are just the style needed in commercial work. The letters are clearly and neatly formed and the writing is eminently clean and legible. Stenography is also set forth showing the most advanced style of shorthand writing. Here the elements studied are speed and accuracy. The sister study of typewriting is given careful attention and judging from the elaborate specimens of ornamental work shown there is a mastery over the typewriter learned in this department that is unusual.

With the acquirement of stenography, typewriting and penmanship, however, the student still requires other arts. Rapid figuring and the mastery of the art of commercial figuring is equally important and just as much attention is given it in the bookkeeping department. Here the student learns the most modern methods of keeping commercial books and is well-fitted after having gone through the two years' course of the High School to take any position as a bookkeeper.

Students in this course learn the use of the mimeograph and of the adding machine, indispensable acquirements in modern business offices. Their practical training is complete at the end of the two years' study and they are fit to take positions in up-to-date business offices. Meanwhile they get practical experience in the work of applying what they have learned by taking charge of the financial end of the school cafeteria. At the end of each day the commercial students present the officials of the cafeteria with a detailed statement of profit and loss.

The booklet issued by the students is neatly bound in the school colors—black and red. It has been sent to about fifty of the leading business men of Glendale and Tropic and should be a very valuable index as to the capacity and capability of any student who has completed this course. The work done in issuing the booklet is a valuable experience for the students; it fills them with a sense of responsibility and makes them feel that they are approaching the real work of life and getting in touch with it. It also benefits the business men of the district by giving them a clear idea of what kind of assistants they can get in the finished students of Glendale High School commercial department.

DEATH OF JOHN T. KNOX

John T. Knox passed away Saturday, April 22, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. D. Griffin, 231 E. Fifth street, at the extreme age of 97 years and 9 months. Mr. Knox had been a familiar figure on the streets of Glendale for some years and was most remarkable for his activity and the way in which he retained his mental faculties. He was the oldest member of the First Methodist church, the oldest member of N. P. Banks Post, G. A. R., and the oldest person in Glendale.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Pulliam Undertaking company's chapel. The remains were cremated and shipped to Westfield, Mass., his former home, for burial beside his wife.

An obituary is being prepared for publication.

FLOWERS OF PIONEERS

MRS. ELLA RICHARDSON TELLS OF GLENDALE'S FIRST REAL GARDEN

"It was back in 1868," said Mrs. Ella B. Richardson, "when Mrs. W. Ella W. Richardson, 'when Mrs. W. from Cleveland, Ohio. She was the mother of O. S. Richardson and of E. W. Richardson. She had thirteen grandchildren. The Richardson family occupied the famous old mansion which looked out over the valley and was a landmark in those days. There was no Tropic then. The Richardson property was below the Southern Pacific track near what is now known as Atwater.

"In those early days Mrs. W. C. B. Richardson used to feel very lonely. She was far from the land where all her people dwelt. It was a long journey to reach California and people who came out here felt as though they had taken leave of everyone they knew and would never see them again. From the many writings that she left I gather that she felt that way.

"She speaks of standing out at night, on some of those clear evenings to which we are all accustomed in the height of summer and gazing up the valley. The view was unobstructed all the way to Burbank. The Richardson Eulalia ranch stood in the midst of its large and beautiful garden and from it could be seen the old Southern Pacific train coming down the valley a long way. The headlight would be visible and even that seemed a kind of companionship in those early days.

"That is how Mrs. W. C. B. Richardson wrote about her life. Away from all her friends; in the midst of a wild waste—even if her garden was an oasis it was still in the desert—she poured out her soul in little verses that speak of the calm and resignation the early settlers practiced perforce. She had lost her daughter at the age of 12 and grief for that bright child never seemed wholly to have left her, although she was quietly resigned to all that God might think best. Here is one of her poems:

"What will you have my lady fair
From this bright world of ours?
A strain on the harp of love so rare,
Or a wreath of golden flowers?"

"Take heed my friend to what I say,
Give yourself up to God;
Though rough and thorny be thy way
Yet angels guide the rod.

"You ask for light in this dark hour
When tired of grief and pain;
'Tis then He'll come with higher power
To build thee up again.

"Be not discouraged though, I pray,
Be hopeful to the last,
Though dark and lowering is today,
'Tis brighter than the past."

"How the influence of the garden life she led was felt in her private thoughts may be seen in the following stanzas:

"Prepare the soil for the seeds,
A beautiful springtime is near;
Mow down the brambles and weeds,
A rich harvest of fruit will appear.

"Encourage the soil that is faint;
Give a word or a look that will cheer;
The erring one may grow to a saint,
Though clouds that are dark oft appear."

"Again:
'I enter where flowers are blooming

Ever fresh with the pearly dew;
Then my heart grows light as I'm dreaming
Bright visions. Oh may they prove true!"

"The undertone of sadness that runs through all these verses is plainly marked:

"I asked of the trees, the birds, the flowers
To bring me rest in my weary hours.
The trees bowed low their trembling heads;
The flowers shed fragrance from their cosy beds.

Then the birds chimed in with magic power
And brought me peace in that lonely hour."

"That was written in 1885. As time went on the old sorrow was at least hidden away even if it was never forgotten. The healing power of Nature becomes more and more manifest and as the Valley began to fill up and neighbors were more plentiful the lonely mother had less time to think of the past in the multifarious duties of the present; but she never forsook her garden; it was always her delight and was considered a wonder in those old days."

The train was held up by the bandits between Jimenez and Torreón. According to dispatches from Columbus Gen. Pershing now knows Villa's whereabouts. Pablo Lopez, Villa's lieutenant who took a prominent part in the raid on Columbus, N. M. and was shot in both thighs in the pursuit of that troop by the American cavalry has been captured. He is being brought to Funston's headquarters on a litter.

CLOSE OF THE SHOW

FREE FLORAL FUNCTION CLOSING AFTER THREE DAYS OF SUCCESS

When the Glendale Garden society closed its Free Flower show on Saturday night it was acknowledged by all that the three days' exhibition had had such unqualified success as to have justified all the work of the past year, and in this way amply repaid the officials and all others who worked for this gratifying end. The large tent was crowded at all times and the enthusiasm displayed augurs well for the success of the society in its second year.

At the close of the evening on Saturday, Mr. Caruthers, Mr. Peter Oliver and Mr. Williams auctioned off the flowers and plants given into the hands of the society for its own use. The auction realized the handsome sum of $20.

Among the many who aided in making the show a success were Mr. Smith of the Glendale Sanitarium, whose two displays, one of flowers and shrubs, the other of cacti, were greatly admired, kindly aided in setting up stakes and building the platform; Mr. Ernest Owen, Mrs. Walter Ross, Mrs. H. C. Barnard in the administration office, who dispensed advice and information. Mr. Peter Oliver absented himself from his business for the three entire days of the show, to help, and his private display, renewed every morning, elicited much admiration.

Some of the most beautiful roses sent for display but not for competition were from the garden of Miss Alice Frank. This young lady, in addition to supplying the show with charming fresh blooms each day, took the trouble to name each variety, thereby adding much to the educational value of the display. It is to be hoped that next year every specimen of every flower will be accompanied by a card bearing its proper name.

The management of the Flower Show desire to return their very grateful thanks to the Tropic Presbyterian church for the loan of the tables which were used at the show. Thanks are also due the Rev. Irving Mills, who placed at the disposal of the show the 6 tables used by the St. Mark's Episcopal church. Thanks are also tendered the trustees of the High School, who allowed the tables from the High School to be taken in order to accommodate the many unexpected exhibits.

Mrs. H. G. McDougall won a prize ribbon in the floral basket section. Mrs. Rosie Cooke is full of enthusiastic plans for a floral display next year; her table this time was lovely. Mr. Stone of Chestnut street brought Saturday morning some most beautiful roses. He, too is planning for a whole display next year; so is Mr. Hamilton of Tropic, whose roses Saturday were exquisite.

Mrs. McPherson was the woman behind the scenes during the Flower Show. Sitting in the work tent, she was content to remain unnoticed and unobserved while with deft fingers she fashioned the dainty bouquets sold by the camp fire girls.

Mrs. Lane, mother of ex-Mayor Lane, was one of the happiest and busiest women at the show. Her floral basket received a special ribbon. Miss Elsie Arbutnot worked every morning in the tent. So did Mrs. Allison of Fairview avenue, who assisted Mrs. Sydney Dell at the school garden exhibits.

Mrs. H. C. Ackley was always the first to arrive at the tent in the morning and the last to leave at night. Her devotion cannot be too highly extolled; no work was too hard for her, no hours too long, no task too difficult. Mr. H. C. Ackley undertook the arduous work of helping to shape the tent from an empty and barren spot to the thing of beauty as it appeared to the public on the opening day.

The presidents and officers of the Glendale Garden society desire to thank Mr. A. T. Cowan, owner and manager of the Glendale Evening News, for the publicity he has all along accorded to the society. This has built up the society as nothing else could have done, while the generous publicity given the Flower Show was one of the principal elements in its success.

The president and officers of the Glendale Garden society hereby publicly offer their warmest thanks to Miss Norma Gould, who provided the Free Flower Show with the classical and artistic performance of her six pupils in forest, bird and flower dances.

Thanks are also tendered to the past city trustees of Glendale, by the president and officials of the Garden society, for their timely financial assistance to the Free Flower show, which came at a time when such

THE END IS NEAR

ANGELS ARE ABOUT TO LOOSE THEIR HOLD ON THE WICKEDNESS OF THE WORLD

"Angels of God are holding in check the belligerent powers of earth, else the entire world would be embroiled in the awful death struggle of Europe," declared Elder E. E. Andross, president of the Pacific Union Conference of the Seventh-day Adventists, in an intensely interesting sermon at the Glendale Adventist church, Third and Isabel streets, last Saturday morning. He said his study of the Bible leads him to believe that in a very short time the Almighty will remove all restraints from humanity, and allow wicked men to follow, unbridled, the ways of their own choosing. He urged his hearers to prepare for that time by making their peace with God.

Quoting a well-known author, Elder Andross said: "Transgression has almost reached its limit. Confusion fills the world, and a great terror is soon to come upon human beings. The end is very near. We should be preparing for what is soon to break upon the world as an overwhelming surprise."

Continuing, he said: "Today Belgium is a 'waste, howling wilderness.' Montenegro's ruler is an exile. Serbia's king has fled from the country. These lands are in the hands of their enemies. Fourteen of earth's great nations are grappling to the death. We are told that the great armies have ceased to take prisoners except in large batches, which means, of course, that men are killed outright, because of the time that would be consumed taking them to prison camps. The angels of God are about to release their hold upon the wickedness and strife of this world, which, hitherto, has been held in check, as we are told in Revelation 7:1: 'And after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree.'

"Restraint of the awful trouble soon to break upon the world will be held in check a little longer, until the judgment work now going on in heaven is completed, until all men have made their choice to obey God and live, or to disobey and die. All characters will have been sealed, as it were, beyond possibility of change.

"Now is the time for preparation of heart and life to meet the great King. Jesus is soon coming. Not all will pass through the grave. We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. However, a special preparation is necessary to meet Christ in peace. Some will cry out in anguish, 'The great day of His wrath is come, and who shall be able to stand.' But that need not be. The door of mercy is now open. All who will may now find pardon if they will but turn to God."

ANOTHER READING CIRCLE

A reading circle is to be formed tomorrow at the home of Mrs. H. W. Yarrick, 1447 W. Third street, to study the course of reading for parents gotten out by the U. S. government. One circle has been in existence several weeks, meeting on Wednesdays at the home of Mrs. C. H. Toll. The new circle will meet on the same plan, on Tuesdays, from 11 until 2, each one taking his own lunch. Anyone interested is welcome. The first book to be studied is "Children's Rights" by Kate Douglas Wiggin.

recognition and support were invaluable. The officials also desire to express their thanks for the assistance given by Mr. F. E. Thorpe and his excellent orchestra, who voluntarily came forward and donated their services free, and thereby contributed in a very great degree to the success of the show on Friday night.

Thanks are also due to the Salyer Piano company, for their kindness in giving the use of the player-piano, which was in service on the platform all through the show. To all who assisted the flower show in any way thanks are also offered. It would be impossible to mention everybody, but all will understand that their services were appreciated. The loyalty, unanimity and courtesy which characterized all who aided the enterprise were instrumental in making it the great success it was.—NANNO WOODS, President; ELLA RICHARDSON, Chairman of Flower Show Committee; MORRIS CARUTHERS, Manager of the Flower Show.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, APRIL 24, 1916

EXPENSES OF THE GREAT WAR

According to experts Germany's expenses in the great war to date amounts to $9,595,000,000, while the estimated wealth of that country in 1913 was about $75,000,000,000. German investments abroad amount to $5,800,000,000, of which about $750,000,000 have been sold to the United States while the remainder is unrealizable. Germany's colonies are lost to her and her shipping industry is ruined. The German nation is living on what it accumulated during the past forty years. Unless the unforeseen should happen the Germans are approaching a great financial catastrophe.

Britain with all her wonderful commercial wealth and resources is also hard hit. The outlay of that country to date is $5,920,000,000, including the gross expenditure and the loans to Dominions, Allies and repayments to the Bank of England. The British government's financial deficiency for the coming year will be about $4,690,000,000. It is manifest that the British government will be compelled to resort to a tariff for revenue before long.

If the war should last until March 31, 1917, it is estimated that the expenditures of the various Allied powers approximately will be:

Belgium	$ 2,500,000,000
France	12,500,000,000
Great Britain	13,000,000,000
Italy	2,500,000,000
Russia	12,000,000,000
Servia and Montenegro.....	500,000,000
TOTAL	$43,000,000,000

One of the latest ideas started among the Allies is to make Germany pay a penalty on these expenditures. It is suggested that the allies should pool their indemnities (always supposing that they win) and present them in a combined demand to Germany; also that each allied power should undertake to impose a war debt export duty on all exports of raw material to Germanic lands. In addition the maritime powers should impose, it is suggested, supplementary war debt dues on all German and Austrian shipping entering their ports in all parts of the world. The proceeds of these duties would be paid over by the Allied Powers to the War Debt commission.

Of course speculation is rife at present as to what can be done with the present vast accumulations of debts among the nations. It is impossible to see clearly what can be done and must be done until the smoke of battle clears away and men can sit down and think soberly and calmly of ways and means. It is safe to believe that none of the remedies for the war debt that are at present being suggested will be adopted without considerable alteration and that the outcome of the European world's financial crisis will be different from what is imagined.

COMING CHANGES IN ENGLAND

It is prophesied that there will be many social changes in England after the war. Numbers of the nobility and their families have taken part in the fighting in Europe, according to their usual traditions. There is scarcely a noble family that has not lost one and some more of its men in the fighting. Some noble families are now extinct. The nobility of England, Scotland and Ireland have always given their sons to their country. The business of being an officer in the British army has hitherto been the business of a gentleman. The "ranker" and the "bounder" have always been found in the list of the officers but they were the exception, not the rule.

Now, however, the supply of officers drawn from the nobility has failed and the officers are being drawn from all ranks of society. The whole composition of the officers' messes of the British army is completely changed. It is said even many of the customs and much of the etiquette of the famous regiments have been dropped and that the change will be even greater than was at first anticipated.

Taking up the British newspapers that advertise country estates for sale it can be seen that there has been a vast increase in the number of desirable places that have been thrown on the market. More than 50,000 acres of fine gentlemen's estates are advertised in one real estate magazine alone. These are sporting estates, with fine preserves of game and fish. Country seats in every county in England and Scotland and Ireland are on the market. Of course this has always been the case. These show places are very expensive to keep up and a proprietor who is compelled by, say parliamentary duties to be in London most of the time and to keep up a city establishment is always and naturally anxious to rent his country seat for a time at least. Many having acquired the city habit and the practice of running over to the continent for a season are also anxious to rid themselves of an incumbance that is expensive; but even making allowance for all this there are very many more country seats and estates for sale just now than there ever have been. Those big estates will likely be broken up and the people will have a chance to rent, perhaps to purchase on favorable terms the land that is needed to give back some of the nation's lost virility.

How much the movement for the employment of women has advanced may be seen in the fact that there are now more than 9,000,000 women workers in the United States. In another year the women workers will constitute one-tenth of the whole population of the country. At this rate there will soon be as many women as men engaged in the different employments throughout the country. Imagine if such a war as that which is now occupying Europe should fall on this land! It might become necessary to employ a great many more women in the different trades and professions. Government statistics show that there are 263,315 female stenographers and typewriters; 14,061 linotype writers, 2,530,846 domestics, 1,820,980 factory and mill girls, 76,508 trained nurses, 111,117 mid-

MISSISSIPPI ON RAMPAGE

Glendale people who were formerly residents along the Mississippi river may be interested in the following lines copied from the Whiteside Sentinel, Morrison, Illinois:

With old Father Mississippi on his annual spring rampage the people of Clinton and other towns along the banks of the river are experiencing all the discomforts incidental to such floods. The water at Clinton has reached a stage of 16.1 feet above the low water mark, the highest since the year 1880, when the river reached the record mark of 21.2 feet, and while there is no particular danger, yet the firms in the business section are having trouble keeping the water out of their basements, and in many cases it has been found necessary to remove the stocks of goods to safer places.

Old rivermen say that the crest of the flood has just about reached Clinton and that in a day or two the water will gradually fall. Farther north in Wisconsin the water is already lessening.

Fear has been expressed that the flood might force the Clinton Gas & Electric Co. to shut down their plant and leave the city without power or light, but the management states that it will take a stage of 20 feet before they will have to draw their fires.

The official opening of the Mississippi to navigation took place on Saturday, April 15th, the date being set by the government and the insurance companies. As soon as the flood subsides it is expected that the river lights will be placed in service by the light tenders. Most boats which have business on the river are already in service.

The country roads south of Clinton are impassable in places because of the high water, and travellers are forced to make detours of several miles to reach desired destinations. The water has backed up in spots to a distance of a mile from the main channel of the river.

Farther down the river the situation has become more serious. Opposite Muscatine, Iowa, the levee protecting the Drury drainage district became weakened by the flood and on Friday the embankment collapsed. The water rushed in through an opening 150 feet in width, inundating the district to a depth of from six to ten feet, causing scores of families to flee to the roofs of their homes for safety and drowning much live stock. The break in the levee is at present beyond repair, and with the river still rising, grave fears are entertained for the safety of many of the families marooned on their housetops.

ENTERTAIN FILM PEOPLE

A huge basket of Cecil Bruner roses will center the table at the charming home of Mr. and Mrs. George Melford, 1219 West First street, Tuesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Melford will entertain a number of film stars at an elaborate eleven-course dinner. Among the guests will be Mr. Theodore Roberts, Miss Smythe, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Forman, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Moore and Miss Cleo Ridgely of the Lasky company, Mr. Harry McCoy of the Keystone company and James Horne, manager of the Glendale Kalem company. Following the dinner the entire company will motor to San Fernando, where Mr. Melford, who is manager of the Lasky company, is staging a benefit performance to provide funds for a blind woman whose sight may be restored with the proper medical attention. A number of the guests will have a place on the program and assist in this most worthy cause.

wives, 2,000,000 women farm laborers, 100,000 women bakers, 8219 telegraph operators, 88,262 "hello girls." Eighty per cent of the teachers throughout the country are women; two-thirds of the cottonmill workers, one-third of the hat, suit and overall makers, one-fifth of the tailors, one-third of the shoemakers. It is also stated that women are now working before the flaming doors of blast furnaces in Pennsylvania. Should war break there will doubtless be many who would volunteer to fight.

It is amazing how many things have advanced in price just because of the war. Take the item of the paper used for printing of all kinds. The advance has been marked in all grades of stock and it is impossible to know from day to day what price will be asked. Much of this advance is ascribed to a scarcity of German dyes. Recently the British released several shiploads of those dyes at the request of the United States. It will be interesting to see how much of a reduction in price will be made. Prices advance with a celerity that is astonishing, but once up they are very reluctant to come down again. Of course it will be argued that wood pulp is very dear now and that the reason for the advance was that scarcity. It is only necessary to look back a few months and listen to the wail about the paper dyes and the influence their scarcity would have on the paper prices to value that statement as it deserves. In every department of human necessities the war is made an excuse for high prices. The meat packers of Chicago and elsewhere are getting an exceptional market in Europe, but they also advance the price of meat to their own countrymen. Meat has recently advanced several cents all over the land and is still going up. Seeing the effect of war in a non-belligerent land it is to be hoped it may be avoided altogether.

ROSES IN THE HOME

What is home without its roses? Roses on the inside in the form of kindly deeds, friendly family greetings, cheery words, and a happy communion which, if there be no words, speaks volumes for the peace and accord of the family life. Then roses on the outside. Here in California where there are roses twelve months in the year, why should there be any home—regardless of how humble—without its fragrant blooms, which cannot help but bring cheer to the weary and balm to the sick. Flowers are wonderful indicators of the lives of the people who live within the premises. Barren lawns seldom bespeak a refined, wholesome family, while on the other hand, a well-cared-for flower garden is rarely the property of a slouch.

Miss Lydia Stanton of 410 Park avenue, Tropic, was a guest of Mrs. Elliott, 1453 Oak street, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell, Jr., of Los Angeles were guests of Mr. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mitchell, on Sunday.

Miss Pearl Stiffler of Los Angeles was a week-end guest of Mrs. Irene McReynolds and Miss Edna James. Miss Stiffler came out to attend the flower show on Saturday and remained over Sunday with her friends.

Judge Whomes and Mrs. Whomes motored over to Pasadena Sunday, to take part in a family reunion at the home of their son, Dr. Robert W. Whomes. The spacious Whomes' mansion was filled with guests—twenty-four in number. The party arrived in autos and the day was spent in all manner of amusements and a pleasant time enjoyed.

J. D. Cole, who resides at 309 Orange street, purchased the Chas. E. Anderson residence at 201 N. Louise street last week, and will take possession June 1st. It is reported that the Andersons will make Long Beach their future home, as Mr. Anderson is the Los Angeles Times' representative at Long Beach.

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson of Central avenue took a party to Los Angeles Sunday to attend a lecture by Mr. Chadwick on Christian Science at the Theatre Beautiful. The lecture was very practical and was much enjoyed by all. Mr. Chadwick speaks next Sunday afternoon at the Shrine auditorium.

Dr. Jessie A. Russell, N. Maryland street, was the principal speaker at a meeting of women at San Gabriel, Saturday, on the subject of "Proposed Amendment to the Community Property Law." During the week Dr. Russell spoke at afternoon meetings at Whittier, San Pedro, Los Angeles and at a large evening mass meeting at Huntington Park. She will also speak at the State Convention of the California Federation of Women's clubs, to be held this week at Del Monte, and again on Thursday forenoon at the same convention.

WEST GLENDALE UNION

The West Glendale W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. May V. Kenyon April 18, 1916 to appoint delegates to the coming county convention to be held at Hollywood April 26, 27 and 28. Mrs. May V. Kenyon, Mrs. Hyatt and Mrs. Florence Smith were appointed delegates with Mrs. Lucy Durham and Mrs. Jennie Moore as alternates. The next regular meeting of the Union will be held Tuesday, April 25, at the home of Mrs. Kenyon.

NEW VULCANIZING ESTABLISHMENT

Messrs. Conrad and Kellenberg of Los Angeles have leased the room at 822 W. Broadway in the Ford agency building, in which they have started the Glendale Vulcanizing company. The young men are experienced in this line of work, are hustlers and will no doubt make a success of the business. Fred Conrad, junior member of the firm, is a son of Mrs. Jesse Joseph of Central avenue, and was acquainted in Glendale before entering business here. The shop has been fully equipped with the latest machinery necessary for the work and in addition to vulcanizing and tire work, the agency for two leading makes of tires has been secured.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

A merry party left the Alex Mitchell home on Kenneth road Friday morning, for Camp Gilbert, the Mitchell's cabin in the Big Tejuja canyon. In the party were Misses Edith Tyler, Bertha Berry and Lorraine Mitchell, all teachers at the Columbus avenue school, Miss Eulalia Richardson and Mr. Shives Mitchell. They returned Sunday evening after a most delightful outing, having taken many hikes to spots of interest and beauty, near the camp. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hewitt, 728 N. Louise street, motored over to Pasadena Sunday and took dinner in the Hotel Maryland with friends. The hotel was crowded and brilliant with Easter decorations. Number of guests from Los Angeles and the surrounding district were present to hear the music.

Mr. and Mrs. James Connors of 1662 Kenneth road, spent part of Sunday visiting friends in Los Angeles and afterward motored to Santa Monica beach, where they spent the remainder of the day.

Dr. J. E. Eckles, who has been camping during the past week in the mountains north of Azusa, returned home Sunday, after a very pleasant outing.

Casa Verdugo was very gay and busy Sunday. Numbers of guests from Los Angeles dined there and many tourists also came to admire the wonderful floral beauty of the gardens and enjoy the mountain scenery. Among the guests was ex-Mayor Snyder of Los Angeles, who brought a large party with him. The De Nubila orchestra was a feature of the day.

DOROTHY BONNELL BENEFIT

Only one day remains to sell tickets for this worthy cause. If you are approached tomorrow, do not turn a deaf ear to this urgent appeal for help. The case is one of unusual merit, and the necessity for assistance paramount. It is essential to have in constant attendance upon this little sufferer, a trained nurse. Her salary must be paid, and an allowance made for board and keep of the little patient and nurse. Contribute your mite toward helping the committee in charge, to supply the funds to properly care for little Dorothy.

Unless strangers come to the assistance of this family, there are no funds available to care for the immediate and pressing needs of this seriously injured child. We are sure every citizen in Glendale would gladly help, if we could reach every one personally and explain to them the sad features of this case.

So if you have not secured a ticket, we urge you to buy one tomorrow. When the curtain raises at the Palace Grand Theatre Tuesday evening, April 25, don't let one vacant seat be visible. Let Glendale prove she stands ready to help freely and gladly when the occasion demands.

Tickets can be secured at the following stores:

Munson's Drug Store.
Central Market.
Glendale Pharmacy.
Cornwell & Kelly's.

TROPICO COMMUNICATIONS

Patrons of the Evening News residing in Tropic are kindly requested to report all communications for publication in the News direct to the office by mail, messenger or by phone, Sunset 132 or Home 2401. Extra office force has been arranged for so it will be possible to take care of all communications in an expeditious manner.

BRIDE-ELECT ENTERTAINED

Miss Gertrude Wilson spent the week-end with Miss Catherine Lennox of Van Nuys, who entertained on Saturday with a luncheon and kitchen shower in her honor. At one o'clock the guests were ushered into the diningroom, which was a bower of apricot shaded roses, this color scheme being carried throughout the three-course luncheon. Places were found by means of cupid place-cards, the honored guest's cupid being arrayed in bridal veil. The afternoon was spent in the solving of the "kitchen romance," after which the bride-to-be removed the complete kitchen outfit from the miniature clothesline. Margaret McKee, "queen of whistlers," rendered several pieces; there were solos by the hostess and others of the guests. The invited guests were: The Misses Gertrude Wilson, Edna Learned, Helen Wright, Dorothy Lee, Genevieve Gannaway, Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Misses Margaret and Leah McKee and Mae Franklin of Hollywood, Gwelf McQuinn of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Howard Lennox, Mrs. J. C. Lennox and the hostess, Miss Catherine Lennox.

ST. MARK'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

St. Mark's never had a happier Easter than yesterday; the decorations never looked better, and the church takes decorations beautifully; and the large robed choir rendered the Easter music fine. Glendale Lodge of Elks No. 1289 were guests of the church to attend Divine service, and a great many of the members availed themselves of the privilege. The congregation crowded the building to overflowing. The Sunday School Easter service in the evening was well attended. The school presented its Easter offering of $27.00 for missions.

Tomorrow, St. Mark's day, Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Johnson of Los Angeles will hold a confirmation service in the church at 7:30 p. m. Next Sunday the Easter music will be repeated by the choir.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The splendid Easter programs announced in Saturday's News were carried out in full. The church was most beautifully decorated, lilies and roses predominating.

At the morning service the following were received into church membership: Horace and Gordon McRae, Mrs. Price and sons, Maxwell and Donald; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Colson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin, Louise Belle Coates, Earl Van Dyke, J. E. Brown and Mrs. A. H. Chapman. A large number partook of the communion.

It is indeed unusual for any church in a town the size of Glendale to have a choir which can by itself give an evening of such beautiful music as that given Sunday. Too much praise cannot be given for the splendid manner in which "The Resurrection" by Potter was rendered. Mr. A. R. Chappell is the efficient director and has been working with the choir for several months on this particular production. Mrs. L. P. Abell was the excellent accompanist at the piano, and the talented and trained singers who so charmed the large audience were Mrs. C. M. Van Dyke, Mrs. A. R. Chappell, and Mrs. Blake Franklin, sopranos; Mrs. W. D. McKee, Mrs. S. R. Frazee and Mrs. C. Bullinger, altos; Mr. Blake Franklin and Mr. Ralph Beers, tenors; Mr. L. P. Abell, Mr. W. H. Yarrick and Mr. Whittaker, basses.

It is planned to repeat a part of the splendid music next Sunday.

LUTHERAN EASTER PROGRAM

Large congregations attended the special Easter services in the Lutheran church Sunday. Within the past year the Lutheran congregation has grown with gratifying rapidity and according to the report of the pastor, the Rev. R. Warren Mottern, it will not be long before the congregation will have a church building of its own. At present it worships in the Seventh Day Adventist church building. At the morning service the choir sang several pieces of special Easter music and Mr. Arno Hundhammer played several appropriate selections on the violin. In the evening a special children's Easter service was held. The organist, Mr. P. E. Laichinger, and Mr. Arno Hundhammer, formerly second concertmaster of the Royal Gewerbehaus and Belvedere Orchestra, Dresden, Germany, and concert master of the Bovani and Lambardi Opera companies, rendered some excellent music with organ and violin.

Those who took part in the program were:

Address of Welcome..... Raymond Anderson
Easter Greeting.....Lavina Thede
Tell Me Little Flower.....
.....Wilhelmina Reith
Jerusalem Awaken.....
.....Elizabeth Mottern
Children's Easter.....Rebecca Klein
Why Do We Bring the Flowers?.....

The First Easter.....Esther Klein
How It Happened.....Hearcel Shaffer
The Flower of Easter.....
.....Louise Daugherty
The True Spirit of Easter.....
.....Raymond Wolf

.....Mrs. J. A. St. Clair

The Easter address was given by Mr. John A. St. Clair, who made a forcible appeal for "Religion in Common Life." The choir and quartette contributed largely to the appropriateness of the service by their singing of special Easter music.

THE GOLDEN TOUCH

Once there was a King, named Midas, who loved gold better than anything else in the world. Every day he went down into a dark room in his castle to play with his piles of gold, and to see them shine. One morning, before he arose from his bed, he sighed: "I wish I had the whole world for my treasure-room, and that it was full of gold all my own; then I would be very happy!"

Just then a voice said, "Midas, you are a very rich man. You ought to be the happiest man in the world."

"I am not," said the King, "but I would be if everything I touched would turn to gold."

"Are you sure you would not be sorry you made such a choice?" said the voice.

"How could I be sorry? I would be the happiest man in the world!" "Very well, then," said the voice, "you shall have the Golden Touch."

Just then a little sunbeam came through the window, shining on his bed. He put out his hand and touched the coverlet, and it was turned to gold. He sprang from his bed and ran about the room turning everything to gold. Then he dressed himself and was delighted to find his clothes become golden garments. Going downstairs he went out into the garden, and kept plucking roses which changed into beautiful shining gold. Even the dewdrops became little nuggets of gold. Then he went into the house to breakfast, and had great fun changing his daughter's bread and milk bowl into gold. Just then his daughter, Marygold, came into the room crying, "Oh, my beautiful roses are all ugly and yellow and without any fragrance."

"Don't cry," said her father; "let us eat."

But as soon as he touched his breakfast, the baked potatoes, fish and cakes all became gold. . . . He looked at Marygold, who was quietly eating her bread and milk. How he longed to have just one taste! Seeing her father's sad face, Marygold ran to him, but as soon as he took her in his arms and kissed her, she, too, became hard, shining gold, and even her tears were little nuggets of gold. Poor, unhappy King!

All at once the room grew bright, and a voice said, "How do you like the Golden Touch?"

"I hate the very name of gold!" cried the King. "I would give all I have to see my daughter smile again."

"Then," said the voice, "take a pitcher, go to the river, jump in head first and fill the pitcher with water; then sprinkle a few drops of it on everything you have changed to gold. Everything will become as before."

The King quickly did all the voice had said. The first thing he did with the water was to sprinkle Marygold, who at once opened her eyes again. Then he went into the garden and changed the roses back to their natural beauty and fragrance. Nor did he stop until he had sprinkled water on everything he had changed to gold. Then he ate his breakfast with great joy. Only two things were left to remind him of the Golden Touch—the sand in the river and Marygold's hair. As this made her more beautiful Midas said that was the only gold he cared for after that. —Adapted from Hawthorne's "Tanglewood Tales," in "World Stories Retold," by W. J. Sly.

The numerous strikes and labor troubles that have of late affected England led Judge Gary to say: "These workmen are pretty mean to take advantage of England in her hour of trouble. They show a poor spirit like the beggar's." "A beggar stopped an English veteran and whipped out a request for a penny to buy a cup of tea with. "The veteran, hoping to shame the able bodied scoundrel into enlisting, said sternly: "Could you do anything with a bayonet, my man?" "I could fry a rasher of bacon on it, sir," the beggar answered."

HONOR BARD OF AVON

The Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club has prepared a very interesting program to present before the club on Tuesday, the 25th of April, as a tribute to the birthday of Shakespeare.

Mrs. Mazie Fullman Garrett, who has been instructing the section for the past year, will give a lecture recital on the drama "Antony and Cleopatra."

Mrs. Garrett has made such a thorough study of all of Shakespeare's works that she is mistress of her subject no matter from what phase she presents it. Her knowledge of English literature in general history and of the growth and development of the drama from the Greek down to the present time, gives her a wide scope of thought.

Given her pleasing personality and the thrilling drama of Antony and Cleopatra as her subject, it should be an afternoon well worth while.

Not to neglect the musical part of the program—appropriately musical numbers will be given by Mr. Julius Kranz, violinist, and Mrs. Frank Arnold, soloist. Mr. Kranz will give the following dance forms:

Govotte, by Rameau, Andantino by Martini-Kriesler, and Minuet by Mozart.

During the time of Shakespeare there were no musical compositions of any worth. However dance music, especially the minuet, was extremely popular. Mr. Kranz will be accompanied by Mrs. Masters.

Mrs. Arnold will sing two of Shakespeare's ballads: "Who Is Sylvia and "Hark, Hark, the Lark."

She will be accompanied by Mrs. John Barrows.

Refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. W. P. Thompson and members of the Shakespeare section.

THE SONG OF THE VACANT LOT

Poets have sung of the beauties of springtime

Of youth, love, life and what not. It remains for me, an unknown bard, to sing of the vacant lot.

Dear old Mother Nature

How lavishly she gives To us her birds and flowers and bees And everything else that lives.

And what return do we make to her Just tending our garden spot?

Lets broaden our activities And take in the vacant lot. For all these unsightly blemishes Upon her smiling face

Let's each be a beauty doctor And save her from disgrace. Let's plow these lots and plant them And keep them free from weeds

Or at least some time in the spring time

We can scatter a handful of seeds. We can keep them free from rubbish

Make each a real beauty spot Now everyone can get out and look,

For the nearest vacant lot! —Tropico, Cal.

ON THE GREAT LAKES

Navigation of the Great Lakes of the United States and Canada will open on May 1, and with its opening will begin the moving, according to an official of the department of commerce of the former country, of these three principal and very important commodities in bulk: Net tons of ore, 60,000,000; net tons of coal, 33,000,000; net tons of grain, 14,000,000. These figures should serve to convey a fairly intelligent idea of the volume of commerce carried by the inland seas of North America.

THE PRIVILEGED CLASS

John Mitchell said, apropos of the New Haven acquittals:

"The acquittal of these financiers reminds me of a little story.

"A child said to its teacher: "Teacher, why is it that in these tales about people who are severely punished by the law, they are always called poor sinners?"

"Because, my child," the teacher answered, "the law never punishes rich sinners."

GOD'S ALLNESS

Remember that, whatever charge of folly may justly attach to the saying,—"There is no God," the folly is prouder, deeper, and less pardonable, in saying, "There is no God but for me."—Ruskin.

"If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,

"If all men count with you, but none too much,

"If you can fill the unforgiving minute

"With sixty seconds worth of distance run,

"Yours is the Earth, and everything that's in it,

"And—which is more—You'll be a man, my son."

An old tenant of Queen Victoria's Balmoral estate used to be greatly concerned when the queen went driving on Sunday afternoons. She even ventured to speak about it. The queen, who allowed a good many liberties to her tenants, smiled and said to the old woman:

"But, Janet, the New Testament tells us distinctly that the Sabbath was made for man."

"Aye," said Janet severely. "I know it does; and I think none the more of the New Testament for that."

A man has to be some financier to buy experience without paying cash for it.

HOPE TO SETTLE SEWARD RAILWAY STRIKE

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT ANXIOUS TO GET AHEAD WITH ALASKAN ROAD CONSTRUCTION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SEWARD, Alaska, April 24.—All the men whom the United States government recently brought to Alaska to build the railroad from Anchorage to the coal fields are out on strike. They complain of gross mismanagement on the part of the directors of the enterprise. No provision was made for their needs. There were neither sufficient cabins, nor clothing, nor bedclothes, nor fuel. Their representations were not listened to and conditions became worse. The wage scale also was unsatisfactory. An agreement was reached on the main points on March 4, but the men maintain that the agreement was violated. The officials say that they will abide by the terms of the March agreement.

GERMANY WANTS PEACE WITH AMERICA

OFFICIAL STATEMENTS HINT AT A STRONG DESIRE ON THE PART OF GERMANY TO AGREE WITH U. S.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, April 24.—According to leading officials in Berlin the kaiser and his advisers are not anxious to get into trouble with the United States. A break with this country would not suit them at this moment. The problem they have to solve, however, is somewhat complicated. The moment the nature of President Wilson's demand was made known throughout the country the people became intensely excited. The government is now in great doubt how to deal with the situation and at once satisfy the demands of the United States and the popular demand for maintaining the Teutonic dignity.

RELIABILITY IN BUSINESS

Too much importance cannot be placed upon the matter of reliability in business. The average man is not informed as to the worth of many articles of merchandise and he must necessarily depend upon the dealer for reliable information as to the merits of the goods he wishes to purchase. The merchant whose word as to the quality and price of merchandise may be depended upon is always deserving of patronage in preference to the one who is unreliable in making statements to prospective buyers.

PULLING TOGETHER

The team of horses that pulls together can move a greater load than the team that does not pull together. One horse starts with a jerk before his mate is ready, and the object to be moved does not start. It is only when both horses of the team pull together that the best results can be accomplished. So it is in public affairs, the best results can be accomplished when the people of the community work in harmony and all pull together.

ATTENDANCE AT FLOWER SHOW

At a meeting of the directors of the Flower Show this morning it was reported that reliable estimates of the numbers that had attended the flower show showed that about 5000 had been present. This of course does not mean 5000 people, because many of the same people attended every day. This is a very gratifying attendance and is looked on as a guarantee that next year the numbers will be largely increased.

SHIFTING RESPONSIBILITY

How apt are people to shift responsibility. As citizens of a community every man is equally responsible for the continuance of neglects in that community. The common remark is, why is this and that thus and so. In a spirit of kindness call attention to the corrections that should be made in the condition of things, and the chances are the corrections will be made.

FINDING FAULT

It is so easy to find fault, and it is so difficult to offer a reasonable remedy to overcome the fault. There are ten faultfinders everywhere to one remedy worker. It is so easy to say "them" are not my sentiments, but it is indeed difficult to present to the public a reasonable set of sentiments.

GOOD CHARACTERISTICS OF OTHERS

The man is indeed very fortunate who can keep prominent in his mind the good characteristics of his fellowmen, and neglects to recall the weak characteristics. There is so much good in this world that it becomes necessary to give only passing attention to the bad.

One day we read that Villa has only eight men and one leg; and the next day we learn that he has two thousand men and two legs. According to the size of the disturbance the reporters for the daily press in America are much bigger liars than those covering the war in Europe says an exchange.

EXPENSIVE REPAIRS

In order to stimulate his trade, the village blacksmith hung out a sign that read, "Whatever It Is, I Can Repair It." On the morning of April Fools' day, the town was elbowed his way through the usual crowd that was collected round the door, and handed the blacksmith the parts of a broken lamp chimney.

"I'd like you to put this together for me as soon as you can, John," he said, winking toward the crowd. The smith took the ragged bits of glass, examining them carefully while the idlers looked on with considerable amusement. Then he went into the room in the rear of the shop.

Stepping across the alley to the grocery store, which was out of sight of the crowd, he bought a 10-cent lamp chimney exactly like the broken one. How every one laughed when he stepped out of his little room a moment later and put the whole chimney into the astonished wag's hands, with the dry remark:

"I'll have to charge half a dollar for that job."—Youth's Companion.

ARTILLERY THEN AND NOW

"And Jonathan gave his artillery unto his lad and said unto him, Go carry them to the city." One can hardly read that verse without a smile in these days of big guns. The mind involuntarily pictures the little lad walking off with a sixteen inch gun tucked beneath either arm. But it is worth recalling that "artillery" originally meant only arrows and missiles of that kind. Some have derived the word from "arcus," a bow; others from "artelaria," the art of missile throwing. The first development toward the big modern meaning, however, may be traced in the Scriptures when we read of "engines invented by cunning men to shoot arrows and great stones."

A BOOSTER MEDIUM

The Glendale Evening News always stands ready to boost any worthy cause. Of course there is an expense connected with a newspaper plant that is fitted up for doing good publicity work that is not connected with a plant that is not so prepared. Considerate people recognize the existence of this extra expense and therefore, take a pleasure in throwing patronage to The Evening News.

MINISTERS ON OUTING

The Rev. E. H. Willisford of the First Congregational church of Glendale is among the large number of Congregational ministers who are enjoying an outing on Catalina island. Dr. Willisford started for the island Monday morning. This is an annual affair. There will be about sixty Congregational ministers from Southern California in the party. They will be accommodated free in various houses and will provide their own food. The First Congregational church of Catalina will see to the arrangements for their comfort. One hour a day will be spent in study and the rest of the time in rest and recreation.

LOCAL TALENT IN DEMAND

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Norma Rockhold Robbins and quartette of her pupils, two of which are Glendale girls, Zetie Steele Duncan and Gladys Gibbs Sherman, will go to Anaheim, where they have been engaged by Prof. Hanck, superintendent of Anaheim schools, to sing on the high school course. The program will consist of ballads, costume numbers and operatic selections.

No doubt residents of Glendale who enjoyed the delightful recital given by Mrs. Robbins and pupils recently at the Masonic hall, will be glad to know that these young ladies are pleasing audiences elsewhere with their sweet voices as well as at home.

FOLKS

My little grandson was noted for his courtesy and sociability," says a writer to the Chicago Tribune. He had a pet puppy that he was tending carefully. One day a neighbor stopped at the gate and, calling Billy, asked how his dog was getting on. "Oh," answered Billy, pleasantly, "just fine. How are all your folks?"
